Each presenter must be available to discuss his or her presentation during this time. Drs. Richard Wiggins and Wyatt Tellis, the 2009 scientific program committee co-chairs will conduct “roving tours” during the SIIM 2009 Posters and Demonstrations Session to review methodologies, provide constructive criticism, and most of all discuss the positive attributes of this year's scientific exhibits.

AWARDS:

Posters and Demos are scored for awards/prizes based on the following criteria: scientific merit, clarity of presentation, and interest to SIIM members. Awards for the best scientific exhibits will be displayed at Saturday's poster and demonstration session. Prizes will be presented to recipients at the closing general session at 3:30 pm, Saturday afternoon, in Ballroom AB.

To be eligible for an award, authors are to turn in a full paper for peer-review to the Journal of Digital Imaging before or during the SIIM 2009 meeting via JDI Manuscript Central at <https://mc.manuscriptcentral.com/jdi>.

CONTINUING EDUCATION NOTICE:

Since SIIM scientific presentations are accredited for continuing education credit, SIIM maintains the right to actively protect that accreditation. The poster and demo session moderators will be instructed to interrupt speakers whose talk has an overt marketing bias, and to document those instances. Such documentation will be used in abstract evaluations for future SIIM meetings. To avoid this, presenters are advised to avoid all marketing logos except for an opening slide and disclose any potential conflicts of interest (if applicable).

SECURITY:

SIIM will not be responsible for the installation or dismantling of your display. Security will be provided by SIIM, but neither SIIM nor the convention center maintains insurance covering the presenter's property and it is the sole responsibility of the presenter to obtain such insurance. Therefore, it is understood the presenter shall be fully responsible and liable for losses and damages for any of their own equipment used.
